Sometimes, even the smallest decisions can change your life forever...

At this year's Edinburgh Fringe Monahan explores the consequences of the choices we make and actions we take in everyday life. With his trademark storytelling charm, wild leaps of imagination and endearing vitality, Monahan, explores the world changing choices made by human beings, from our ancestors to the present day.

Monahan speaks about his personal experience sharing real life, heart-stopping stories and make or break life decisions he's had to make along the way. He also ponders how we can make the right decisions, here and now, to safeguard future generations. Should we listen to our heads, our hearts or should we adopt 'Monahan's Seven And A Half Key Steps To Rightfulness'?

Each night Monahan tests out his theories, by demonstrating on a live random human being, to prove that it IS possible and we all (even when the chips are down) have the ability to DO THE RIGHT THING!

Make sure YOU do the right thing. Come and see the show – after all, even the smallest decision can change your life forever.....
